Requiem Attracts Enthusiastic Crowd

Various groups combined talents to perform one of the main attractions this year, Mozart's "Requiem." Both college choirs and the college orchestra as well as alumni and staff persons joined in the performance under the direction of Charles C. Hirt, professor of music emeritus from the University of Southern California.

The Jazz Band was another significant part of the performance schedule this year, as shown in the popularity of their concerts.

The annual Concerto-Aria concert hosted five student soloists. Suzanne Gross, Doug Bomberger, Sally Oyer, Beth Smucker and Rita Yoder performed with the college orchestra.

Professor Marvin Blickenstaff also engaged in an active concert schedule, and traveled to Central America for a piano concert tour in spring.

Language Interest Increases

The Foreign Language Department experienced a resurgence of interest among students this year. The department graduated 18 majors, an all-time high.

Increased enrollment in classes was attributed in part to special SST units such as those in Poland, Germany and China.

Gerhard Reimer, professor of German, returned to Germany to renew a German studies program. The program was last active in the spring of 1972. If all goes well, the department expects to begin another German study unit in the spring of 1981.

Communicators Tackle Projects

The Communication Department finished a successful, productive year. The industrious drama sector performed several fine plays—"The Lark," "Impromptu," "The Proposal," "Emperor's New Clothes," "The Dumb Waiter," "To Walk in the Way," "Show of Hands," "No Exit," and the Sign Language group put on "Show of Hands." An added attraction was a dinner theater production of "Arms and the Man."

In December, Professor Stephen Shank delivered a dramatic interpretation of Revalation which was so well received that he gave an encore performance in the spring.

The broadcasting sector of the department, WGCS, honored its founder at a coming-of-age celebration during alumni weekend. The station also seized that opportunity to christen a new, higher powered stereo transmitter installed this year.

The Record and Maple Leaf staffs also learned to use new equipment. A Compugraphic system, coordinated with the Information Services office, allowed students to set their own type.

Record Number Graduate in Art

This year the Art Department graduated the largest group of art majors to date. All of the 15 seniors displayed their work in a gallery exhibition during the winter trimester.

Last fall art Professors Abner Hershberger and Marvin Bartel also demonstrated their creativity with the installment and unveiling of their individual commissioned art works in Umble Center's foyer.

Literary Visitors Challenge Students

English students and professors were instructed and entertained by various literary visitors throughout this year.

Poet-in-residence Nick Lindsay, Somalia novelist Nurridin Farah, seven Irish poets and writers, and Professor Don Costello of Notre Dame delivered lectures and readings to provide input for interested students.

In addition, members of the department were busy writing. A book by Professor J. Daniel Hess and articles by Professor Ervin Beck set examples for Expository and Advanced Writing students, who also had articles published. Twelve Broadsides and three Pinchpenny books were produced and published by students.

Various Changes Enhance Programs

Several changes took place this year in the various departments of the Social Sciences. The division introduced and pushed for the passage of minors rather than co-majors. Now the division is able to offer additional minors which were previously unavailable.

Enthusiasm continued for the Urban Life Center program, located in Chicago, which provides for Social Work Practicum opportunities. This program allows students to experience work in an urban setting.

Interest was also growing for the Family Life program, as well as for Mennonite History classes. The division was also able to include history as a future general education requirement.

Research Aids Studies

Ongoing research by Merle Jacobs and Stan Grove, biology professors, attracted much attention when a grant was received by the college to fund their work. The $247,000 grant from the National Institute of Aging allowed for the purchase of an electron microscope which arrived this spring.

Jacobs' research deals with the aging process of the fruit fly Drosophila melanogaster. Grove will be the principal operator of the elctron microscope for this research as well as for his own on fungi.

Students are able to work as assistants and the department hopes that eventually a class on electron microscopy and other research methods will be arranged.

Tangible Aspects More Visible

Home economics has a way of perpetuating itself. Unlike other majors which are less tangible, most classes in home economics are geared at teaching practical skills. Meal Management, Clothing Construction and Consumer Strategies prepare graduates for work in extension and education, where they pass these skills on to others.

In addition, a home economist learns less tangible but important skills. Child development, the role of the family in society, conservation of natural resources, and healthy interpersonal relationships broaden the student's awareness and effectiveness in community.

Well-known sociologist Elise Boulding presented a lecture this winter on the role of the family in society. She stressed the significance of the family in the world's future and discussed other issues relevant to home economics.

New Classes In Demand

The physical education department enjoyed a stimulating increase in enrollment this year.

Two new classes—cross-country skiing and racquetball—were well-received this winter. In addition, students found that old favorites such as volleyball, tennis and yoga were healthy outlets for frustration, fat and fun.

Professors Resign Over Controversy

Toward the end of this school year, Bible Professors Diane and Dennis MacDonald both submitted their resignations, because of a disagreement voiced by the constituency over Biblical interpretation. A special forum was called by students to voice protests and to raise questions. Although the MacDonalds chose to leave, many students were skeptical of the process involved.

Both Dennis and Diane were very active on campus while they were here. With student help, Dennis compiled a semantic field index of the Nag Hammadi Codices, wrote a Pinchpenny book and led the Christian Life and Renewal Week.

Diane became the first woman recipient of the C. Henry Smith Peace Lectureship, which she will be working on next year. She was also coordinator for the Artists Series this year.

Royer, Clemens Leave Department

Division V bid a fond farewell to Dr. Mary Royer and James Clemens at the close of this year.

Royer, professor of education, retired after 45 years of teaching at Goshen. Her name has become synonymous with the teaching of Children's Literature and has also worked with Christian Education of children.

Clemens, college librarian, retired after 30 years of service at Goshen. He also led the library science curriculum.

Indiana Governor Otis R. Bowen presented Katherine Aschliman, professor of education, with a special citation for her outstanding support for and service to children through the Tel-Ed program during the International Year of the Child.

New Curriculum Defines Program

"It has some 'first-year faults' to work out, but basically it's a good program," said junior nursing major Molly Skiles, describing the nursing department's newly revised curriculum.

The new program calls for each junior to assume a case family with a pregnancy during the first trimester. Students quickly learn to apply classroom theories in their care of children and adults. The main thrust of the program has been redirected at health promotion.

A boost came to the department when the National League for Nursing approved the changes and granted continuing accreditation for the maximum time period of eight years.

DIVISION VII—General Education

A familiar sight, seeing SSTers off

International students gave a program this fall to illustrate customs of their native countries. Music, dances and slide shows took the audience on a "trip around the world."

Burkholder Finesses China Exchange

A new dimension was added to the SST program when President Burkholder arranged for a 1981 fall unit to go to China. Burkholder visited in January with officials of Sichuan Provincial Teachers College, where the students will be located, and received approval for the exchange April 29.

"This is a very unusual opportunity, and it will represent the first exchange of its kind," Burkholder said.

The program will involve twenty students teaching English at the university in China, and eight Chinese professors studying in Goshen. Because of the importance and delicacy of this new exchange, SST officials and college administrators conducted a careful screening process to select the twenty students for the fall group. Professor Atlee Beechy was selected as SST leader.

"Going to China with a group of undergraduates will be a real breakthrough," Burkholder said. "This first attempt is crucial—it must work well, or it won't happen again."

Burkholder continued to explain China's motivation for the exchange, stating that it is looking for technology and friends from the Western world. Goshen College's motivation is the same as for other SST units: to learn from and about another culture, as well as to provide a service. Students in China will be mainly involved in teaching English at the university.

SST units this year were located in Belize, Costa Rica, Haiti and Honduras. Nicaragua was abandoned as an SST location last year because of the dangerous political situation there.

President Burkholder holds a press conference to announce the China Exchange.

ACTIVITIES

Artists Series Brings Sell-Outs

An expanded Artists Series, coordinated by executive secretary Diane MacDonald, proved successful this year with several sold-out performances. The six events were presented in the Umble Center and in the Union.

An added feature this year was the introduction of artists in convocations. Students wishing to attend performances were required to buy tickets which were previously included in tuition, yet student attendance increased over last year.

Performances were given by the jazz combo Billy Taylor Trio; Dance Kaleidoscope, a professional dance troupe; pianist Natalie Hinderas; Bert Houle and Sophie Wibaux, famous mimes; the International String Quartet; and the Chestnut Brass Company.

Musicians Gather Spontaneously

The Goshen campus was alive with the sound of music this year.

Many students made harmony together in impromptu gatherings or organized new groups like Hoosier Mother, Maple City Quintet, Ekklesia, The Power Trio, and Rhythms of Love.

In addition to the continued popularity of coffeehouses and pre-movie entertainment, students were treated to the imported talent of Tanglefoot, Phil Keaggy and Pete Blum.

Draft Debated

Concern over the proposed mandatory registration prompted several campus meetings to inform students of the qualifications for conscientious objector status, as well as to discuss the implications of nonregistration.

The Iranian seizure of the U.S. Embassy became an involved topic of discussion. A visiting Muslim Student League lecturer asserted that U.S. actions were directly responsible for the siege.

The women's movement invoked continued debate. Students presented a Chocolatehouse showing women historically and currently involved in society, and a Contemporary Women's Issues class was introduced this winter.

Alcohol Education Week addressed the issue of alcohol abuse, with one day of classes cancelled for small group workshops. Student reactions were mixed, but many felt that the week's activities resulted in increased awareness of the problem.

I Lay Today in the Sun

I lay today in the sun
It was time to get out of the shade
That is the extent of my ambition
I'm not trying to run
Got tired of being afraid
I lay today in the sun
The world's fate lies with some politician
I came out here and prayed
That is the extent of my ambition
I hear a new war has begun
There's talk of an enemy raid
I lay today in the sun
Didn't feel like getting my gun
And I'd just made a plowshare of my blade
That is the extent of my ambition
They say the war's been won
The town is having a parade
I lay today in the sun
That is the extent of my ambition

Two-hundred fifty-nine graduates were happy for a sunny day for the 82nd annual commencement April 20. Harvard professor Peter J. Gomes delivered the commencement address, "To Make an End is to Make a Beginning." Seniors eagerly received their diplomas, even if they were only empty covers. Following the ceremony, families and friends gathered on the Union lawn for the close of the weekend activities.

A baby cries for its
All-dressed-up mommy and daddy
Who stand watching—oo—ee—I hope
You're not dirty again, huh?
There are a lot of little kids around.
I think about when I first came here
Four long years ago:
The snack shop at noon was an awesome place
Where people with back packs and bicycles
Ate bagels and yogurt;
The men had beards and those funny rimless glasses,
The women wore their hair either long or short
And either patched jeans or long baggy skirts.
And now I'm a senior
And now I have a beard
And now I live off campus
(My bike's outside).
Sitting here with my coffee
I feel closer to these "tourists"
Than perhaps I'd like to be,
But perhaps that's the way it's supposed to be.
Is nothing sacred?

The Five Days of Christmas

Long before the end of vacation
And with surprising determination
I carry my bags out of the house
As mother and father watch—sublimely irritated.
"Well, I'm paying rent out there you know,"
I say, half wanting to stay,
But it isn't that half making the decisions today.
We're all trying to come to an understanding
Of what is meant by, "Going home."

A Small College Town in the Midwest

Pulling out of the gas station
He talks intensely about the weather
As she, blond hair hanging softly around her face,
Stares out of the window at nothing in particular.
Oh, the quiet horrors
Of that first trip to his house—
Thanksgiving was unavoidable.

Art Professor Marvin Bartel created a ceramic mural which was placed in the Umble Center in January. Eight feet high and five feet wide, the mural is composed of actual pots embedded in ceramic tiles.

On assignment from the Goshen Parks Department, Professor Emeritus of Biology S. W. Witmer (below) worked this year on identifying trees and shrubs at Parsons Swamp Woods. At the annual meeting of the Indiana Academy of Science he presented a paper which was an outgrowth of this project.

J. Daniel Hess (right), professor of communication, finished his book From The Other's Point of View, which was published by Herald Press this year. Other published books by faculty members this year include Theron Schlabach's Gospel-vs.-Gospel and John Lapp's The View From East Jerusalem.

After a year's work, art Professor Abner Hershberger presented his landscape mural titled For Everything There is a Season in the Umble Center in October.

New Players Gain Experience

The women's field hockey team began their season with several inexperienced players which gave them some difficulty in developing individual skills. Although they had several close games, they ended their season with a 0-11 record.

According to team captain Audrey Augsburger, "The team played well together and didn't lose enthusiasm in spite of game losses."

In addition to the regular games, the team attended two weekend tournaments at Saulk Valley, Mich. and at Purdue.

Netters Place At State Tourney

Winning 19 of 28 games, the women's volleyball team went on to capture second place in the Division III state tournament. Trish Albrecht, Elaine Bigler and Barb Carbaugh were named to the six-player all-tournament team.

"This season has been one of the most rewarding I've coached in terms of the enjoyment of the game experienced by the players, the excellent team morale and the fine level of play," commented Coach Sue Roth.

Duo Competes In National Tourney

The number one duo of Charles Colbourn and Rechad Cassim, who were undefeated in season doubles matches, finished the season as District 21 Doubles Champions, qualifying them to compete in the National Tournament in Kansas City, Mo. this May. Although the duo was eliminated in the first round, Coach Harold Yoder said they "played very well against a nationally-ranked team."

Yoder called his '79 team "one of three excellent tennis teams in the Mid-Central College Conference." The Leafs finished third in the final MCC standings. Sophomore Steve Yoder posted the best singles season with a 9-1 record.

Next year's team will miss seniors Cassim, Doug Smucker and Stan Oyer.

The women's team was inexperienced this year and had a difficult, but enjoyable season, according to Coach Joy Hess. The netters finished the season with a 2-6 record.

Hess, a Goshen alumnus, filled in as coach for Ruth Gunden who was on sabbatical leave.

The women are looking forward to next year's season as seven letter women return from the original team of ten this year.

Maple Leafs Snatch Sixth Championship

For the sixth time in nine years, the Maple Leafs ended the season as District 21 Champions. In the NAIA Area IV playoffs they met Tusculum (Tenn.) College and were defeated 1-0 to bring their season record to 13 wins and 3 losses.

Coach Dwain Hartzler said this was "probably one of the best teams—excellent defensively. However, we did not play up to potential in the playoffs."

The season was highlighted with a new school record of nine shutouts for the season and with four players being named to the Mid-Central Conference and NAIA District 21 all-star teams: Paul Sawatsky, senior; Cal Esh and Jay Moyer, juniors; and Bill Buckwalter, sophomore. Sawatsky finished his soccer career with a total of 53 goals and 31 assists.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Strong Nucleus Spurs Team To Top

Under the direction of Linda "Pert" Shetler, GC's women finished a strong 11-5 season, winning runner-up honors at the state and district tournaments in Division III.

Shetler credited a "strong nucleus and 100 percent effort" as the secret to the Leafs' success. The team, she noted, was "a joy to work with."

Next year's squad will miss senior Trish Albrecht, who was team co-captain, most valuable player, leading scorer and top rebounder. Co-captain Karen Egli and Barb Carbaugh are the other graduating seniors.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Individuals Show Team Leadership

Although the Maple Leafs had a rough season and finished with a 5-17 record, outstanding individual performances, an encouraging win over rival Grace, and several new recruits all promise an exciting season for next year.

"This year was definitely a learning experience," said Coach Gene Reagan, as an analysis of the 79-80 basketball season. "Next year I will be a lot wiser and a lot tougher."

Sophomore Dave Kauffman was the Leafs' Most Valuable Player and was named to the all-conference first team. Freshman Kevin Hochstedler was named honorable mention on the all-conference team and shot an award-winning 86.3 percent from the free throw line.

In addition to this strong nucleus, team assist leader Hal Farmwald, Buzz Goode and Bob Mishler will return next year.

Beginner Breaks School Record

It wasn't just beginner's luck that boosted freshman Joann Lemon to set a school record in the 100-meter dash with a time of 12.7 seconds. Coach Sue Roth said that group effort helped the "small but determined" team display their versatility.

The size of the team was a drawback, but several women of the four- to six-member team competed in as many as seven different events throughout the season.

Frosh Breaks School Record

Freshmen Mark Plank and Kevin Leinbach set the pace for the young Cross-Country team. Plank was undefeated in dual meet competition. He broke a school record for the five-mile run with a time of 26:24.

Both Mark and Kevin earned a place on the All-District 21 Cross-Country Team. Coach John Ingold called them "the best, youngest duo in District 21."

Ingold commended the rest of the team as well, stating that this was the first year Goshen has had six runners under 30 minutes. The team finished third in the Mid-Central Conference standings, which ties a previous high.

The men's track team was hindered by the size of their squad. Spread over winter and a spring term, the untimely track season attracted only seven participants.

The Leafs finished fourth in the conference, led once again by Plank and returning letterman David Rusterholtz.

In two meets Plank swept first place in the 10,000-, 5000-, and 1500-meter runs. He was running close to 10 miles per meet.

Veteran Views Bright Future

Junior Dave Weaver, the oldest golfer on the team, predicts a bright future for the young squad, as characterized by this season.

The golfers improved throughout the season, winning two of their final three matches. In the last contest they came within a single stroke of victory and within five strokes of a school record. At the end of the season, however, the overall record was 2-4.

Positive Attitude Strengthens Team

"It was an interesting year," commented Coach Harold Yoder. "I've never had a team that worked harder or had a better attitude."

The hard work and attitude paid off when the Leafs finished the season in third place in the Mid-Central College Conference, although their 4-4 record reflected some ups and downs.

Senior outfielder Pete Hershey was elected to the All-Conference team because of his fieldlng strength and his batting average of .328.
